

According to us, we are invincible...

... when we participate in the 2020 Census. Even if we live in urban or other off-reservation areas, we may think that our tribes will count us in the census, but that is not the case. Our tribes do not provide enrollment numbers to the U.S. Census Bureau, so we need to respond and make sure we are all counted.

The 2020 Census is the count for all American Indians and Alaska Natives, no matter our age or where we live. We use data from an accurate count to plan programs and services in our communities.
